Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, in which Sheldon Lewis, the distinguished Broadway tragedian, will essay the leading role. Mr. Lewis will be supported by a large and notable cast, which in-cludes Gladys Field, Alexander Shannon, Harold Forshay, Leslie Austin and Dora Mills Adams. This picture has attracted great interest in New York and elsewhere from the fact that just now there are two claimants for the honor of being the best Jekyll and Hyde on the screen. One is Shelden the honor of being the best Jekyll and Hyde on the screen. One is Sheldon Lewis and the other is John Barrymore. Both men present very interesting studies of Stevenson's great character, and, while they differ in many respects, it is extremely hard for even a trained critic to say who is the better.

In some of the scenes, particularly those in which Mr. Hyde has the centre of the screen Mr. Lewis seems to tre of the screen. Mr. Lewis seems to bring out the distorted horror of Dr. Jekyil's baleful double with greater effectiveness.

The production has been mounted with an eye to making the rendition of the story extremely dramatic, and a fortune has been spent on the reading litles, which embody many new and novel departures. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde will play at the Strand theatre for three days—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.
